

EARTHQUAKE SAFETY

After an earthquake

Expect aftershocks after an earthquake

Do not enter the damaged building

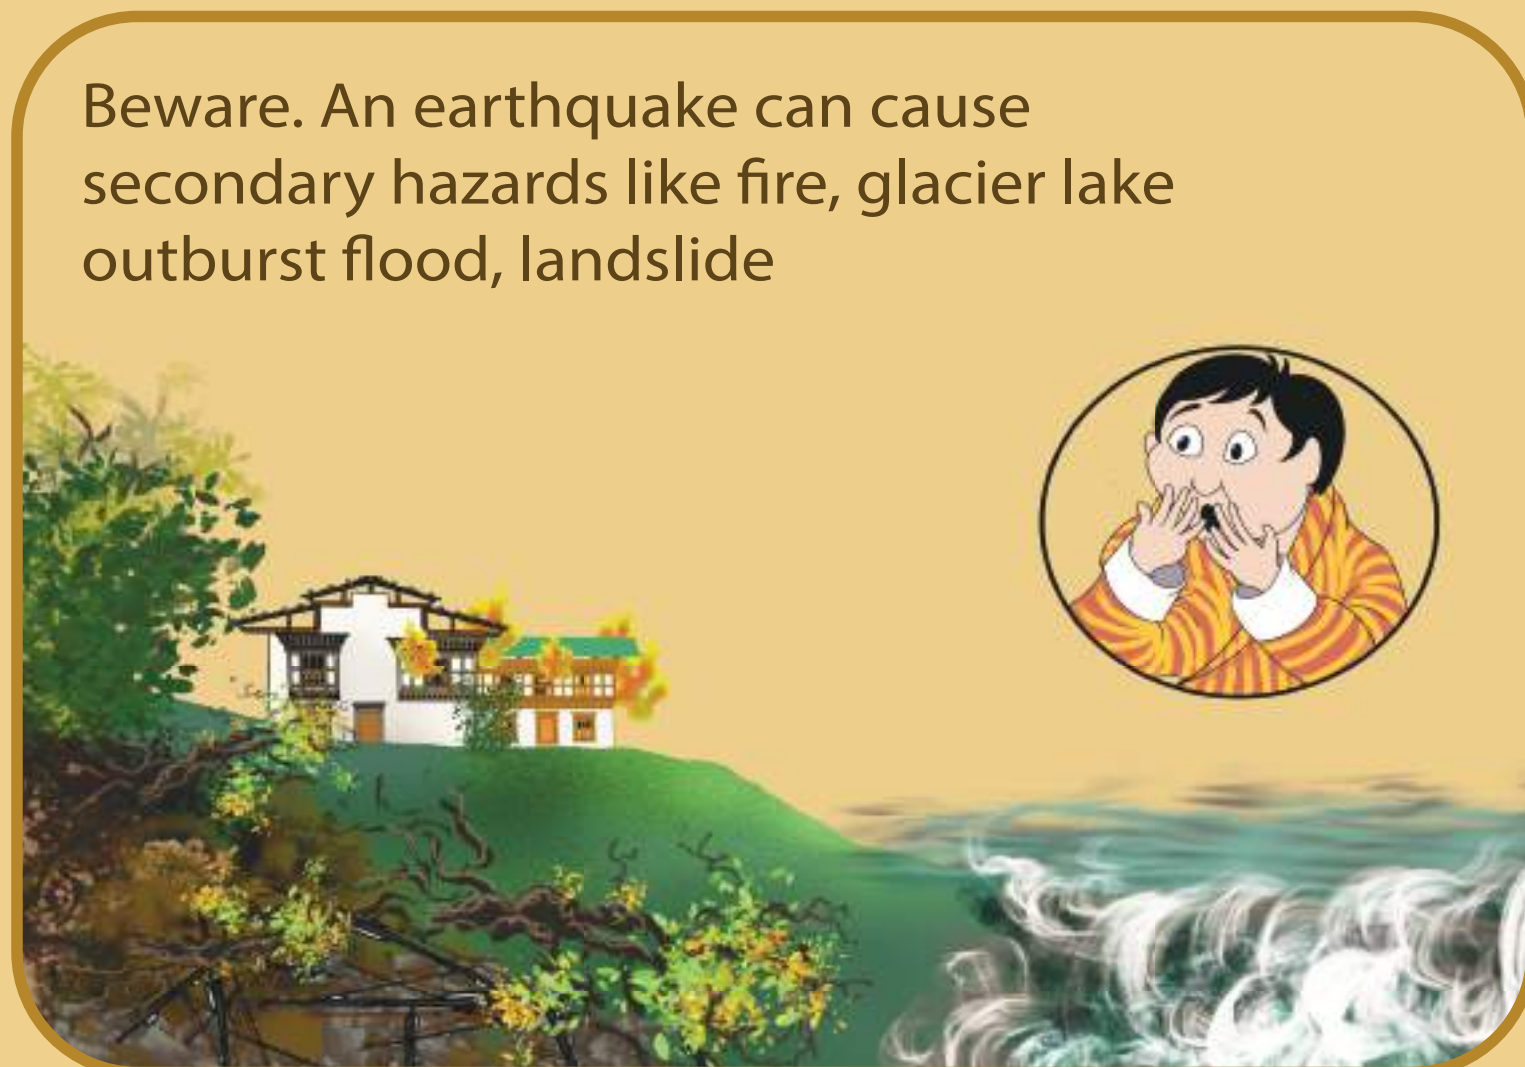

If you are trapped, cover your mouth and nose to avoid suffocation from dust

Use phone only if there is a need for an emergency assistance. Short messaging rather than voice call is advisable

Stay out of damaged building, powerlines, and be alert for rockfalls and other debris

Beware. An earthquake can cause secondary hazards like fire, glacier lake outburst flood, landslide

Don't be misled by rumors or disinformation. Stay informed and rely on information from authorized agencies
